Everyone can do SOMETHING!

So many people are being impacted, and so many aspects of daily life need attention, that it's easy to feel overwhelmed. The intent is to sow chaos and immobilize us. But we know what to do. As the saying goes, "How do you eat an elephant? One bite at a time." And that's exactly what we're doing.

Things you can do without leaving home

Care for Those You Know

Check in on the people you care about—without any expectation of a reply or a conversation. Many of our immigrant friends have shared that no one has asked how they're doing. A call, a text, or a handwritten note can make a real difference.

Write Welcome Cards

Make cards for our immigrant and refugee neighbors, letting them know they are welcome here and that we stand with them. They can be delivered with delivered meals.

Support Our School Heroes

Teachers and school staff are taking on extra responsibilities and the emotional weight of their students. Let's support them with caring notes. Treats are another great idea!

Speak Out to Our City Council

Contact our City Council and urge them to do everything in their power to protect all our residents. Showing up at council meetings, calls and letters all matter.

How to have an impact beyond your neighborhood

Contact Your Legislators

Federal law changes are needed—and this is one place where you can make an impact even beyond Minnesota. Encourage your family and friends in other states to take action too.

Get Involved Locally

Want to learn more about the political process and meet others who care passionately about our democracy? Connect with the League of Women Voters.

Help people stay in their homes. Straight-up request for donations

Donate for Rent

Between fear of leaving their homes, and significant downturns for businesses, people can't work and then can't pay their rent. In Roseville we created a Housing Stability Fund called "Love Pays the Rent".

Find Untapped Resources

The needs are so great. We have a suggested list of sources of donation funds, employer options, and fundraiser ideas.

Because You Have a Choice

Do you dread going to the grocery store or get tired of making meals? Now imagine not being able to leave your home since December—and not being able to do either.

Monetary donations are especially effective because they stretch further and allow purchases based on specific needs. If you prefer to shop, donations of food and personal care items are always in high demand.

Think About Where You Spend Money

Go out to eat at local restaurants. Don't want to go out? Order in from those same immigrant owned restaurants. If you can, pick it up yourself. All restaurants are short-staffed.

Buy gift cards from local restaurants or businesses to be used later. We have heard some people buy gift cards and give them back to the restaurant.

If You're Able to be Out and About – Make Yourself Heard!

If you're able, join the big marches/protests. You can also stay closer to home and participate in the neighborhood protests that are popping up organically, or create your own! All it takes is you and a sign!

Join 30,00 other Minnesotans who have become Constitutional Observers which are trained community members who calmly observe and document law enforcement activity to help ensure constitutional rights are respected and to support accountability.

Wear a whistle and be prepared to blow it when ICE is where you are. Another tip is to use your car alarm. Anything to draw attention to what is happening. ICE hates attention.

Join us to deliver Know Your Rights information to local businesses in person.

What are you good at? Local artists and neighbors are building "creative healing kits" for families, a florist delivers flowers to schools, a towing company donates services, and much more!

Though life is upended for a large percentage of our community, it's true that there are many organizations who needed volunteers before this crisis and who still need help to maintain their services. Maybe even more than before.

One of the most powerful things you can do right now is share what's really happening in our community—especially with friends, family, and people on social media who don't live in the Twin Cities.
